Notice on Recognizing Outstanding International Students

Language Studies for the 2023-2024 Academic Year

To further implement the spirit of the Notice on Further Clarifying HSK Requirements for Degree-Seeking International Students in China, establish advanced models for Chinese learning, and foster a positive atmosphere for Chinese study, it is noted that two international students from the 2023 cohort of the Clinical Medicine program successfully passed the HSK Level 4 (Chinese Proficiency Test) in their first academic year. With a solid academic foundation and diligent learning attitude, they achieved excellent scores of 246 and 200 respectively (the passing score for HSK Level 4 is 180 or above), fully demonstrating their outstanding comprehensive Chinese proficiency.

To recognize advanced models, inspire all students, and further stimulate the enthusiasm of international students in our university for learning Chinese, we hereby decide to award these two international students the title of "Outstanding Chinese-Learning Models".

We hope the recognized students will continue to strive for excellence, set higher standards for themselves, proactively strive to achieve higher HSK levels, and continuously improve their Chinese application skills. Meanwhile, we call on all international students in China to take the recognized students as role models, fully recognize the significance of Chinese learning for academic development and cultural exchange, solidly practice Chinese listening, speaking, reading, and writing skills, and effectively enhance their comprehensive Chinese application abilities. This will ensure they meet the relevant HSK requirements for degree-seeking international students of our university as scheduled, lay a solid foundation for subsequent professional studies and cross-cultural communication, and ultimately successfully complete their studies and obtain the corresponding degrees.
